I was out for a walk recently and so happy the heat had given way to much cooler mornings. The day was picture perfect and, as I passed a woman on the street I smiled and couldn't help but remark what a beautiful day it was. Her reply... "Well unless you have allergies, then it's miserable." Truthfully, I was a bit stunned and not at all ready for her reply. It saddened me that in all the beauty of the morning, all she could focus on was her malady.

In one of her poems, Ella Wheeler Wilcox calls attention to the paradox of the sea: "One ship drives east and another drives west, with the selfsame winds that blow. Tis the set of the sails and not the gales, which tells us the way to go."

Mrs. Wilcox points out that the direction we take in life, whether we drift with the winds of adversity or use their power to guide us into a life of joy and satisfaction, is entirely a matter of how we set our sails. We have the power to decide the direction our life is to take.

To think and feel according to the highest standard is to set our sails in a way that will ensure our reaching the most desirable port. Let's remember that when we decide to affirm some good for ourselves, we want to select an affirmation that we are going to use, and then do everything we can to keep from thinking and speaking in opposition to it.

If we want greater health, then we must not talk of illness, look for symptoms, fear disease. If we want to affirm prosperity, we want to keep our mind off our bills, off the idea of lack. We can't talk of scarcity in any form but want to continue to affirm only plenty and abundance in every part of our life. If we are affirming peace and harmony and happiness, then take care not to quarrel, criticize, or look for things to make you unhappy. Determine to keep your thoughts orderly and in the power of Divine Mind expect them to manifest. Here is a beautiful set of affirmations to help you think and feel according to the highest standard for your life.

In the name, power, and love of the Divine:

- I decree for myself health, vibrancy, wholeness.
- I decree for myself energy, strength, power.
- I decree for myself joy, happiness, harmony.
- I decree for myself life, light, wisdom, love.
- I decree for myself wealth, plenty, riches.
- I decree for myself my true activity and service.
- I decree for myself a spiritual mind and body.
